ABOUT OHA

VISION

“Ho'oulu Lāhui Aloha” — To Raise a Beloved Lāhui. OHA’s vision statement blends the thoughts and leadership of both King Kalākaua and his sister, Queen Lili‘uokalani. Both faced tumultuous times as we do today, and met their challenges head on. “Ho'oulu Lāhui” was King Kalākaua’s motto. “Aloha” expresses the high values of Queen Lili‘uokalani.

OUR FOCUS

Our Hawaiian ancestors understood that the wellbeing of our community relied upon the interrelationship between how we conduct ourselves, steward the islands we call home, and fulfill the responsibility of caring for our families, in both the physical and spiritual realms. They also understood that successfully maintaining lōkahi meant careful observation, knowledge gathering, and informed decision-making. OHA is striving to embrace this time-tested wisdom through our Strategic Plan.

No ke Kaiāulu
For the Community

The ‘ai (poi) surrounded by i’a (foods that complement the ‘ai) exemplifies the bountiful harvest of our collective labor. Working together to grow, harvest, gather and prepare food sufficient for all is foundational to Hawaiian culture and symbolic of who we are as a lāhui. Our kūpuna had a saying, “Ko koā uka, ko koā kai,” meaning “Those of the upland, those of the shore.” It refers to the traditional practice of sharing – fish and limu from shore dwellers, and kalo and other produce from those who lived ma uka. It serves as a mandate that, in good times or bad, Kānaka Maoli must come together and share the very best of ourselves to ensure that everyone in our kaiāulu (community) thrives.

Aloha mai kākou,

Look back on fiscal year 2019-2020, and it’s impossible to ignore the coronavirus pandemic. Every aspect of ‘ohana life has been severely disrupted without warning, preparation, resources or safety nets.

COVID-19 is unlike anything we have previously experienced. The impacts are seen and unseen, implicit and explicit, as the virus continues to wreak havoc on our education, health, housing, economic, and social welfare systems. While the pandemic could easily be the focal point of OHA’s mo‘o‘elelo this year, I would also like to reflect and focus on OHA’s response to our beneficiaries and lāhui.

Maunakea. July bore witness to thousands of Native Hawaiians gathering to protest the planned Thirty Meter Telescope construction on Maunakea, demanding protection for this spiritually and culturally important wahi pana. The unprecedented gathering under the banner of Kapu Aloha galvanized the community, drawing more kia‘i to the base camp at Pu‘uonohulu from around the world. Beneficiaries reached out to the Office of Hawaiian Affairs for kākua and on July 25 OHA’s Board of Trustees approved a resolution authorizing our administration to advocate for the rights, safety and wellbeing of OHA beneficiaries.

Strategic Plan: In 2019 the Office of Hawaiian Affairs issued a Lāhui Impact report (https://www.oha.org/strategicplan/impact) detailing the outcomes of the 2010-2018 Strategic Plan while simultaneously working on a new 15-year Strategic Plan for 2020-2035. Implementation of the 2010-2018 Strategic Plan resulted in an overall investment of $122.2 million into the Native Hawaiian community serving nearly 135,000 individuals.

As work on OHA’s new Strategic Plan evolved, three strategic priorities emerged: ‘ohana, ‘āina and mo‘omeheu (culture). We view these priorities as foundational; a kahua upon which we can build the strategies and tactics that will enable us to support a thriving lāhui.

COVID-19: OHA immediately responded by launching the Kaiāulu Meals program which provided weekly meals to kūpuna statewide, an investment of $450,000. In May, the Board of Trustees approved a $3 million emergency relief package to help Native Hawaiians impacted by the economic crisis. $2.17 million was added to OHA’s existing Emergency Financial Assistance Program grant to help Native Hawaiians struggling economically, and $830,000 was awarded to Native Hawaiian organizations that promote community-based food security (farmers, fishermen, ranchers, etc.).

Voices: As 2020 began, the winds of change swirled throughout our pae ‘āina, giving a new voice to Native Hawaiians deeply concerned about issues like caring for our ‘ohana, houselessness, pa‘ahao, climate change, protection of our ‘āina and natural resources, economic stability, food security and sustainability, perpetuation of our ‘ōlelo and mo‘omeheu, and community leadership – in the form of OHA’s Aloha Rising civic and voter engagement campaign.

In these times when our ‘āina and our world feels chaotic, we hang onto ‘ekolu mea nui – faith, hope and love. We ‘nānā i ke kumu’ – look to our source – and make pa‘a our priorities and foundation of ‘ohana, ‘āina and mo‘omeheu. For our beneficiaries, and for OHA, this is our foundation.

Ke aloha nō; Ke Akua pū

Sylvia M. Hussey, Ed.D.
CEO | KA POUHANA

Aloha mai kākou,

I am humbled to present the Annual Report for the Office of Hawaiian Affairs, covering the activities of the agency from July 1, 2019 through June 30, 2020.

This period ushered in an exciting transition for OHA as the Board of Trustees selected a new chief executive officer (CEO) for the agency, Sylvia M. Hussey, Ed.D., whose five-year term began on Dec. 1, 2019. Hussey was unanimously selected by trustees and had previously served as OHA’s interim CEO and chief operating officer.

We are also on the precipice of launching the OHA Strategic Plan 2020-2035, after robust community engagement across the pae ‘āina.

But despite exciting changes in the agency, I would be remiss if I did not acknowledge the uncertain and unprecedented time we find ourselves in. In the latter half of the fiscal year, we began grappling with the worldwide COVID-19 pandemic, of which we are all now familiar, and unfortunately, to which Hawai‘i was not immune.

OHA was quick to respond to the pandemic and to address the various trickle-down effects the pandemic has had on Hawai‘i. In early April, OHA launched Kaiāulu Meals, a $450,000 program that partnered with a statewide network of community organizations to deliver 13 weeks of locally sourced food to more than 9,300 kupuna in need.

In May 2020, the Board of Trustees approved $3 million in COVID-19 emergency relief funds. This included $2.17 million to OHA’s existing Emergency Financial Assistance Program grant, which aims to help Native Hawaiians struggling economically. Administered by the Council for Native Hawaiian Advancement as the Kahiau Community Assistance Program, the grant provides up to $1,500 in one-time emergency assistance to cover mortgage, rent, rent deposit or utility debts of Native Hawaiians facing financial hardship.

Trustees also approved $830,000 to programs statewide that promote community-based food security for Native Hawaiian farmers, fishermen, ranchers, hunters and other individuals practicing subsistence living.

In addition, OHA has actively advocated for our beneficiaries, including the successful eviction moratorium and subsequent extensions, advocacy on behalf of safety conditions for incarcerated individuals, or pa‘ahao, requesting a delay in the reopening of public schools to ensure a proper assessment of conditions and criteria for in-person instruction, and calling on the State of Hawai‘i to collect and report accurate data in their response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

We are a strong and resilient people who have overcome hardships throughout our history. We will overcome this as well.

I am proud of the achievements detailed in our Annual Report. I look forward to the many great contributions OHA will make to Hawai‘i and the Native Hawaiian community as we move forward and continue to improve conditions for our lāhui.

Me ke aloha pumehana,

Colette Y. Machado
CHAIR | TRUSTEE, MOLOKA‘I & LĀNA‘I
To increase Native Hawaiian civic engagement and voter participation in the 2020 elections, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs launched its “Aloha Rising” civic engagement campaign with an online survey on Jan. 15 to align with Opening Day at the Hawai‘i State Legislature.

The survey was open for a month and over 2,700 people participated with 88% self-identifying as Hawaiian. The question “What’s important to you?” was posed. Responses came from across Hawai‘i, as well as from 41 states on the continent and three U.S. territories.

According to the survey results, a majority of respondents felt that the most important issues facing Hawai‘i were (in order): affordable homeownership, proper management of land and water resources, Native Hawaiian representation in government, poverty and access to Hawaiian Homelands.

OHA used survey results to inform messaging to our lāhui in a series of articles in OHA’s monthly Ka Wai Ola newspaper, in the creation of ads and infographics, and in a series of educational activities that were reconfigured midstream to adapt to social distancing mandates and lockdowns resulting from the coronavirus pandemic.

To encourage informed voting, OHA surveyed candidates in all local political races regarding issues important to Native Hawaiians – based in large part on survey results – with plans to publish each candidate’s responses in Ka Wai Ola prior to the primary and general elections.

Another successful initiative was the development of a series of livestreamed “Aloha Rising Webinars” and candidate forums to run through the elections. The weekly one-hour webinars premiered in May and featured notable guests from the Native Hawaiian community. Discussions focused on Hawai‘i’s history of civic engagement and the cultural importance of community building and political participation. The webinars also included the sharing of mo‘olelo and mele, as well as practical training on mail-in voting.

Weekly webinars and candidate forums streamed live via Facebook and are archived on OHA’s Facebook page and at www.oha.org/vote.
Recognizing the need to provide some type of emergency financial assistance to low-income Native Hawaiians, last summer Office of Hawaiian Affairs Trustees approved a $1.66 million two-year grant for that purpose and in November announced their selection of the Council for Native Hawaiian Advancement (CNHA) to administer the grant, which CNHA rebranded the Kahiau Community Assistance Fund.

When the COVID-19 pandemic forced a lockdown in March, thousands of Hawai‘i residents were furloughed or laid-off and were suddenly without money to pay their rent or mortgage, or even to buy food. So in May, at their first-ever virtual board meeting, trustees approved an additional $2.17 million for the Emergency Financial Assistance grant, bringing OHA’s total investment in the program to $3.83 million.

First quarter data for 2020 compiled by the state Department of Labor and Industrial Relations indicated that Native Hawaiians lost jobs at the outset of the pandemic at disproportionate rates; a quarter of all unemployment claims during this period identified as Native Hawaiian, although Native Hawaiians only constitute 19% of workers in Hawai‘i.

Overall, Native Hawaiians have fewer resources to weather financial emergencies due to their lower per capita income ($25,590) compared to the overall state population ($35,255); 12.3% of Native Hawaiians live in poverty, compared to 8.8% of the total state population.

The grant is intended to assist Native Hawaiians statewide to address unexpected crises, such as loss of income, loss of employment, debilitating illness or injury, or other unanticipated circumstances. With this one-time emergency grant, CNHA can provide qualified individuals and families with emergency funding to help pay their rent, mortgage or utilities.

The two-year grant period began on Jan. 1, 2020, and ends Dec. 31, 2021.
RESPONDING TO THE DEVASTATING IMPACTS OF THE PANDEMIC

By the end of FY 2020, nearly 10.2 million people across the planet had been infected with COVID-19, and more than half a million had perished.

The impact has been unprecedented.

Beyond the fear of infection, lockdowns and social distancing have altered normal rhythms. Closures of non-essential businesses have crippled the economy and ravaged personal finances. And shortages of basic food and household items compounded the collective stress.

In the midst of this chaos, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs took proactive steps utilizing our resources and influence to support our lāhui.

FOOD SECURITY

One immediate concern was food security, particularly for our kūpuna. In April, OHA appropriated $450,000 to launch Kaiāulu Meals, a partnership with a statewide network of 13 community-based service organizations to deliver 13 weeks of locally sourced food to more than 9,300 Native Hawaiian kūpuna. Approximately 39,234 meals and 6,483 Community Supported Agriculture food packages were distributed from April into June.

In May, OHA trustees approved $830,000 to programs that promote community-based food security for Native Hawaiian farmers, fishermen, ranchers, hunters and other individuals practicing subsistence living. The funds are being administered by the Hawai‘i Community Foundation to support locally sourced food from farmers and producers statewide.

LOAN PAYMENT DEFERRALS AND RENT RELIEF

Borrowers with current loans (personal or business) with OHA were afforded loan payment deferrals while tenants/lessees of OHA commercial properties were also provided rent relief if qualified.

PREVENTING RENTAL EVICTIONS

In a March 31 letter to Gov. David Ige, OHA CEO Dr. Sylvia Hussey urged the state government to adopt additional policies to close critical gaps left by the federal moratorium on evictions, to ensure that all Hawai‘i renters could remain in their homes through the crisis.

Hussey asked Ige to provide immediate eviction protection for households unable to pay their rent, but who do not qualify for protection via the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Stability Act.

EMERGENCY FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE GRANT

In 2019, OHA’s Board of Trustees approved and awarded $1.66 million to the Council for Native Hawaiian Advancement (CNHA) for an Emergency Financial Assistance (EFA) grant. In May, OHA Trustees approved an additional $2.17 million for the grant in response to the devastating financial impact of the pandemic on thousands of Native Hawaiian families.

The grant provides assistance of up to $1,500 to qualified Native Hawaiian applicants for rent, mortgage or utility payments.

SUPPORT FOR NATIVE HAWAIIAN SMALL BUSINESSES AND NONPROFITS

In April, OHA and the Native Hawaiian Chamber of Commerce (NHCC), launched the “Native Hawaiian Business COVID-19 Impact Survey.” Results were used to identify critical needs and determine ways to help businesses navigate the current crisis and obtain relief from available state and federal resources. The data will also help to inform OHA’s efforts to advocate for business owners now and in the future.

OHA and NHCC also offered two free webinars in April to Native Hawaiian business owners, nonprofits and local farmers to share information about resources available for COVID-19 relief.

SUPPORT FOR NATIVE HAWAIIAN INMATES

Native Hawaiians comprise 39% of the prison population. The enhanced risk of COVID-19 infection due to close confines and inadequate hygiene in state prisons prompted the state Supreme Court to consider limited release of certain incarcerated individuals last April.

To prepare, OHA met with a coalition of concerned organizations, advocates and service providers to coordinate an emergency response to the re-entry of these individuals into the civilian population. OHA also worked to assess the capacity of service-provider organizations and to identify potential funding sources to support nonprofit organizations assisting these individuals.

OLA KA HĀLOA

In a world of social distancing, virtual programming and events are lifelines. People are working, learning and playing remotely more than ever before. In response, OHA created an eight-episode television news show titled Ola Ka Hāloa hosted by OHA Community Engagement Director Mehanaokalā Hind.

Airing every Saturday from May 9 to June 20 on KGMB, the program looked at how our lāhui is navigating the ever-changing world and explored ways to tap into the ‘ike of our ancestors to gather wisdom and strength for today.

Thousands of Native Hawaiians gathered at Pu‘uhonua o Pu‘uhuluhulu at the base of Maunakea in July 2019 to peacefully demand the protection of Maunakea and protest the planned construction of the Thirty Meter Telescope (TMT).

The incredible surge of community support put increasing pressure on organizers to provide a safe and healthy environment for those gathering to protect the mauna. The kia‘i, the movement leaders, formally reached out to the Office of Hawaiian Affairs seeking monetary assistance to cover the cost of supplies to maintain the pu‘uhonua, and to provide for legal observers and other health and safety needs.

With tensions escalating, OHA’s Board of Trustees approved a resolution on July 25 calling on Gov. David Ige to rescind his Emergency Proclamation for Maunakea and authorizing OHA administrators to advocate for the rights, safety and wellbeing of Native Hawaiian protectors, as well as to provide related assistance as appropriate.

The resolution urged the state to condemn the provocation or intimidation of cultural practitioners and the use of unwarranted force against peaceful protestors by government actors, and to ensure the safety of cultural practitioners and protestors and facilitate communication with all stakeholders.

Maunakea is a deeply sacred place that is revered in Hawaiian tradition. It is regarded as a place of worship and as the piko of Hawai‘i Island. It’s also a critical part of the ceded lands trust that the State of Hawai‘i must protect and preserve for future generations; that is part of the state’s kuleana as a trustee.

Despite four state audits and the concerns expressed by generations of Native Hawaiians regarding the threats to Maunakea’s once pristine environment, the state and the University of Hawai‘i have neglected their legal and ethical kuleana for more than 50 years, prioritizing telescope development at the expense of properly caring for Maunakea’s natural and cultural resources. They have failed as trustees and stewards of this sacred place.

With no other recourse, OHA filed a lawsuit in 2017 to advocate on behalf of the Native Hawaiian people and hold the state and the university accountable for the mismanagement of Maunakea. The lawsuit is not specific to TMT. Rather, it addresses the failure of the state and university to properly manage this cultural resource.
Over the past fiscal year, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs approved more than $4 million in grant funding to support the education of Native Hawaiian keiki from kindergarten through college.

In October 2019, OHA's Board of Trustees approved $3 million in grant funding over the next two fiscal years to support 17 Hawaiian-focused charter schools. Since 2006, OHA has provided $21.6 million to assist 17 Hawaiian-focused charter schools located throughout the state. These schools provide innovative culture-based education to more than 4,700 students, more than three quarters of whom are Native Hawaiian.

Trustees awarded Kanu o ka ‘Āina Learning ‘Ohana (KALO) a grant to administer the lion's share of the $3 million to 16 Hawaiian-focused charter schools. In addition, OHA's Grants Program will directly administer $249,411 to Kanu o ka ‘Āina Charter School, because of the school's close affiliation with KALO. KALO was chosen to administer the grant through a competitive selection process.

“We are proud to continue our longstanding commitment to the Hawaiian-focused charter school movement. Despite facing challenges that normal public schools do not have, these schools are still successfully raising our lāhui’s next generation of leaders and preparing them to flourish both academically and culturally.”

- OHA CHAIR COLETTE Y. MACHADO

Then, in December 2019, trustees selected the UH Mānoa Native Hawaiian Science & Engineering Mentorship Program to administer a $1.1 million OHA grant to provide higher education scholarships for Native Hawaiian students. The grant is intended to increase the number of Native Hawaiian students graduating with college degrees, or earning vocational education certificates. The program has two priority areas: support scholarships for Native Hawaiians pursuing vocational certificates, undergraduate and graduate degrees; and provide wrap-around services for non-traditional Native Hawaiian students to help them complete their degrees or certificates.

The program will provide OHA Higher Education Scholarships to Native Hawaiian students across UH’s 10-campus system. Each scholarship recipient is matched with an on-campus coordinator and the program will also provide advising and mentoring, professional and leadership development, and culture-based workshops.

Since 2010, OHA scholarships have helped more than 2,000 Hawaiian students graduate from college.
PROTECTING WATER RESOURCES

Native Hawaiian communities have endured diversion of their streams for commercial profit for the past 150 years by Hawai‘i’s “Big Five” entities who first siphoned fresh water from natural streams and springs in windward areas for their sugar and pineapple plantations, and later to supply resort and residential developments in dry leeward areas.

Throughout the pae ‘āina Native Hawaiians are fighting for water rights and the restoration of stream flow to support kalo farmers, subsistence practices and native stream and coastal marine life. These are rights that are protected by Hawai‘i’s Constitution. However, the state is not fully living up to its “obligation to protect, control and regulate the use of Hawai‘i’s water resources for current and future generations,” as required by the State Constitution, Article XI, Section 7.

On Maui, the struggle has been particularly onerous.

For 30 years, residents of East Maui, Central Maui and West Maui have engaged in ongoing legal battles to restore stream flow in their communities. Through it all, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs has been a staunch supporter, advocate and plaintiff in the battles in East Maui and Nā Wai ‘Ehā. While there have been some victories in recent years, and some stream flow has been restored, the struggle to protect these invaluable resources continues.

As management of Maui’s water resources becomes more urgent, OHA sees community-based advocacy as critical to ensuring proper stewardship of these precious, irreplaceable resources.

In November 2019, in an effort to identify strategies to elevate community advocacy on this issue, OHA hosted a panel discussion at UH Maui College – “E Ola I Ka Wai: Elevating Advocacy to Protect Our Precious Waters” – which featured community water rights advocates Koa Hewahewa, Hōkūao Pellegrino, Ed Wendt, Summer Sylva and Ke‘eauumoku Kapu. The discussion was moderated by Maui County Councilmember Keani Kawilius-Fernandez.

OHA’s 29-minute documentary, Ho‘i Ka Wai, was premiered at the event. The documentary details recent victories and other developments in the struggle by Native Hawaiians to return water diverted a century and a half ago from East Maui streams.

The film is part of OHA’s Kamakako‘i documentary series and the third film produced by the agency focusing on Maui water rights issues. In an effort to build public awareness of the struggle of the people of East Maui, OHA aired Ho‘i Ka Wai on television and included a live simulcast on social media.

RESTORING DIGNITY TO THE DECEASED

“Humanity benefits every time human beings agree to restore dignity to the deceased whose remains were removed without consent.”

- EDWARD HALEALOHA AYAU, LONGTIME ADVOCATE OF IWI KŪPUNA REPATRIATION.

In February 2020, the Office of Hawaiian Affairs and a hui of cultural practitioners received 20 iwi kūpuna (ancestral bones) that were housed for over a century at the University of Cambridge, ending a decade-long effort to return the Native Hawaiian remains to Hawai‘i.

This event was part of a major initiative by OHA and Native Hawaiian cultural practitioners to repatriate iwi kūpuna from international collections. Earlier in February, the hui of Native Hawaiians held consultations with six German institutions regarding claims for repatriation of iwi kūpuna, moepū (funerary artifacts) and mea kapu (sacred objects).

“The international repatriation of iwi kūpuna, moepū and mea kapu continues to represent a significant priority for the Office of Hawaiian Affairs,” said OHA Ka Pouhana/Chief Executive Officer Dr. Sylvia Hussey. “OHA hopes that this unprecedented repatriation by the University of Cambridge can serve as a model for other international museums and collections to return the ancestral remains of native peoples.”

The hui of Native Hawaiians on this trip included OHA Community Engagement Director Mehana Hind, former executive director of Hui Mālama I Nā Kūpuna O Hawai‘i Nei Edward Halealoha Ayau, UH Mānoa American Studies Assistant Specialist Noelle M.K.Y. Kahanu, and cultural practitioners Mana Caceres and Keoki Pescaia.

The hui received 20 iwi po‘o (skulls) originating from Nu‘uanu, Wai‘alae and Honolulu. The iwi were transferred from three separate private collections to the University of Cambridge between 1866 and 1903.

This was the first time in the 800-year history of the University of Cambridge that the institution returned remains based on a request from an Indigenous group. The iwi kūpuna were among the 18,000 individuals from around the world who are housed at the University of Cambridge’s Duckworth Laboratory, one of the largest repositories of human remains in the world.

2020 SPONSORSHIPS

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs' programmatic sponsorships provide funding support for important partnerships and to organizations whose programs and events benefit the Native Hawaiian community.
The Office of Hawaiian Affairs’ Grants Program is a cornerstone of the agency’s community giving. In FY2020, OHA awarded over $12 million statewide to programs that are as diverse as the community needs they serve. Total grants includes money from OHA’s core operating budget combined with other funding sources.
