Our Hawaiian ancestors understood that the well-being of our community rested upon the inter-relationship of how we conduct ourselves, steward the islands we call home, and fulfill the responsibility of caring for our families, all within the physical and spiritual realms. They also understood that successfully maintaining lōkahi meant careful observation, knowledge gathering, and informed decision making to achieve pono. OHA is striving to embrace this time-tested wisdom through our Strategic Plan.
Message from the Chairperson

‘Ōlelo a ka luna hoʻomalu

ALOHA MAI KĀKOU,

Since taking the reins as board chairman last year, our efforts have been focused and organized around three clear themes. Chief among them has been ensuring that our board meets the high standards of ethics, transparency and accountability that are expected from our oversight responsibilities.

This effort is a direct response to beneficiary concerns over the years about inappropriate or unproductive board behavior, and helps ensure that we are all appropriately held accountable for our actions.

As a result, our board has put a system in place to address any lapse in our responsibility to always act for the good of the organization, rather than for the benefit of ourselves.

Another clear theme has been establishing a trusting relationship between the board and the only employee we hire – the Chief Executive Officer.

Simply put, we are attempting to closely work with the CEO to define how our respective roles will get the best results for our people.

It is a renewed effort that is supposed to help us all understand that a trusting relationship between our board and the CEO is the most effective management tool OHA can have to address its challenges.

The other theme has been making well-considered policy decisions that inspire the confidence and support of our people.

Examples include the significant amount of grant money the board approved in May for nearly 30 community-based partners whose missions are expected to enhance our efforts to help our people improve their health; secure stable housing; upgrade their skills in reading as well as math; move up Hawai‘i’s socio-economic ladder; make ends meet; and protect their legal rights.

The funds for those grants come from a two-year spending plan approved by the board in June. But the spending plan doesn’t just benefit our grants program.

It is also expected to continue helping our people ease the burden of paying for college; helping Hawaiian-focused charter schools continue to keep pace with growing enrollment; and helping make a meaningful contribution to housing and homelessness issues in Hawai‘i, where we are working with state and county officials to find mutually beneficial solutions.

At the same time, the spending plan is allowing us to fund the nation-building process, which is being facilitated by community leaders, as well as address some long-standing unresolved issues at Mauna Kea, where our attention has turned to ensuring that our people benefit from responsible stewardship of the mountain.

Despite the mix of successes and challenges that the year brought, the three themes highlighted have provided the steady hand needed for the board to push for the best results for our beneficiaries by ensuring that OHA is well managed and its financial situation remains sound.

While there is still much work to do, our beneficiaries can take comfort in my commitment as board chairperson to always do one thing: exercise reasonable care in all decision making, without placing the organization under unnecessary risk.

Hoʻoulu Lāhui Aloha,

Robert K. Lindsey Jr.
Chairperson, Board of Trustees

Message from the Ka Pouhana/Chief Executive Officer

‘Ōlelo a ka luna hoʻokele

ALOHA MAI KĀKOU,

Did you hear the one about how the Office of Hawaiian Affairs was able to provide tutoring to hundreds of Native Hawaiian students so they could get a better education? Or what about the one where OHA and its staff were able to help people in the path of lava flows on Hawai‘i Island by giving them emergency aid?

Yes, it’s not exactly water-cooler material or something that will make the local news. The steady good work that we do every year is not headline material. It won’t sell many newspapers.

But when you add it all up, we help thousands of people every year, spending millions of dollars to support our lāhui in ways big and small. This is not a hand out but a hand up.

Our grants program is designed to get various service providers to leverage resources so every dollar we spend might mean two or three dollars in actual services to the most needy in our community.

Meanwhile, we advocate for changes in laws and rules to protect our rights as native peoples. But sometimes our greatest accomplishments are the ones you don’t see.

Every year, dozens of bills are considered at the state Legislature that could negatively impact our people. We are proud to say we’ve been successful in getting those bills killed.

Meanwhile, we continue to make progress on ways to make sure Native Hawaiian traditional and customary rights and practices are protected in perpetuity. This past year, we were able to get a law passed that mandates training for members of state boards and commissions on their responsibilities regarding Native Hawaiian rights and the public trust doctrine.

The members of these boards and commissions are regular people, like you or I, and we’ve found that they’re very appreciative of these training sessions.

At OHA, we do so many things designed to make everyone’s lives better.

We’ve launched websites and programs to educate you about our cultural and political history. We’ve funded programs that integrate culture into health and wellness to help create a holistic solution to bring down the rate of obesity among Native Hawaiians.

We’re also working toward becoming a co-steward of the Papahānaumokuākea Marine National Monument and are helping to underscore our strong cultural ties to the area, that were sustainably managed by our ancestors for thousands of years.

You’re holding in your hands a copy of our annual report. It’s our way of taking a step back and letting you know the full scope of what we’re doing.

But we’re also doing this in the spirit of transparency. You deserve to see our budgetary constraints and our numbers. You need to know that we are planning not just for today, but are exercising the necessary fiscal restraint so we can not only help this generation but the next generation and each succeeding generation.

It is my hope that this report card will give you a better idea of what we are doing every day to benefit Native Hawaiians.

‘O au iho nā me ke aloha a me ka ‘ōia‘īo,

HŌ‘ONAʻAUAO

OUR FOCUS ON IMPROVING EDUCATION in the Hawaiian community ranks near the top of our priorities. The two primary goals for Hawaiian education involve increasing the percentage of Native Hawaiian students who meet or exceed reading and math standards in middle school as well as high school, and boosting the graduation rate at the post-secondary level.

EARLY CHILDHOOD EDUCATION DREAM COMES TRUE

WHEN A CHILD ENTERS KINDERGARTEN, they must be ready to learn. But for many, access to affordable childhood education can be only a dream. Enter U’ilani Corr-Yorkman, the executive director of the Hāʻoalaunuiʻkea Early Learning Center. She opened her center to be “culturally based to be able to not only teach Hawaiian values and traditions, but also kindergarten readiness.” The former teacher in the Department of Education wanted the center to be affordable for parents but to also ensure students were ready to learn. So she turned to OHA to get a Mālama Loan. Since 2013, two classes of children have graduated, and she reports the children are doing well in school – in one case, a child was immediately promoted from kindergarten to the first grade.

MOʻOMEHEU

OUR FOCUS ON PRESERVING HAWAIIAN CULTURE remains among our top priorities. For that reason, we have been devoting time and energy to identifying opportunities that can bring significant value to our efforts to increase the number of Native Hawaiians who appreciate their history and culture. The initiative also calls for increasing Native Hawaiian participation in cultural activities.

LEGISLATION

HAWAIʻI FISHPOND RESTORATION

As the movement to revitalize traditional fishponds continues to gain momentum, OHA successfully advocated for a new law to facilitate the restoration, repair, maintenance and operation of traditional Hawaiian fishponds. The law (Act 230) waives Department of Health water certification for projects vetted through the state’s fishpond permit process. This not only celebrates Hawaiian cultural heritage but may also be key to promoting food security in the islands.

TRADITIONAL HAWAIIAN BURIALS

In response to concerns that the state penal code could be interpreted to make traditional Hawaiian burial methods illegal, Act 171 clarified that traditional methods of preparing and burying iwi are a lawful option for Hawaiians and non-Hawaiians alike.

PEOPLE ATTENDED 43 I MANA KA LAHUI EVENTS PUT ON BY OHA’S COMMUNITY OUTREACH PROGRAM TO EMPOWER THE COMMUNITY AND PROVIDE CULTURAL ENRICHMENT.

2,495
Economic Self-Sufficiency

HO‘OKAHUA WAIWAI

OUR FOCUS ON IMPROVING economic self-sufficiency centers on two critical goals: increasing homeownership and housing stability among renters within the Native Hawaiian community; and increasing Native Hawaiian family income. Called the Ho‘okahua Waiwai initiative, this effort is ultimately about helping Native Hawaiian families become more financially viable.

- 85 Number of Native Hawaiians who received jobs as a result of training and skill development
- 12 Number of Native Hawaiians who completed vocational training to prepare them to enter the work force

Helping Hawaiians Get Housing

“I never chose to be homeless,” said Jewlynn Keli, a Native Hawaiian mother of four. “Just like my mom and dad, I worked hard and thought that would get me by.” But then she had to quit her job to take care of her husband and the couple moved to Tennessee. When they returned they couldn’t find affordable housing. Keli turned to Hawaii Community Assets. Funded in part by OHA, HCA has made it a priority to respond to the surge in homelessness by assisting low income Hawaiians who have been affected by the crisis. “We empower them to use their own cultural knowledge of traditional resource management. This becomes their blueprint for wise money management they can use to realize their goals of returning to permanent housing,” said Jeff Gilbreath, HCA executive director.

Keli credits HCA’s programs for helping achieve her goal of stable housing for her family.

Health

MAULI OLA

OUR FOCUS ON THE HEALTH of Native Hawaiians reflects a top priority to reduce their obesity rate, which is due to health concerns associated with a lack of physical activity and proper nutrition. Our research shows that 75 percent of Native Hawaiians are at risk of being obese or overweight. We are working towards significantly reducing the obesity rate among Native Hawaiians by 2018.

- 894 Number of Native Hawaiians who increased their physical activity by enrolling in programs to reduce their weight and improve their health
- 170 Number of Native Hawaiian infants born at full-term whose mothers received prenatal health care services during their pregnancies
MAKING STRIDES IN SUSTAINABILITY

IT IS A BEAUTIFUL MISTY MORNING in He‘eia and Kanekoa Kukea-Schultz looks over acres of taro land. “We talk about food security, this is it,” Kukea-Schultz says.

Kukea-Schultz is the executive director of the non-profit Kāko‘o ‘Ōiwi, a 405-acre plot of land that is the site of what just might become a pivotal part of the future of a sustainable Hawai‘i.

In a project funded in part by OHA, the organization hopes to convert the land to cultivate taro and vegetables and to raise livestock.

The hope of Kāko‘o ‘Ōiwi is that as the land is restored with native intelligence, native species such as the endangered Hawaiian stilt, or ae‘o, will return to live in a symbiotic relationship within the moku: from the lo‘i, to the kalo, to the ae‘o and finally the kanaka.

OUR FOCUS ON PROTECTING THE ‘ĀINA is part of a larger effort to honor the past while preparing for the future. As the state’s 13th-largest landowner, we manage more than 27,000 acres of lands set aside largely for cultural and agricultural endeavors. To maintain the connection to the past and a viable land base, we’re taking steps to ensure responsible stewardship of Ka Pae ‘Āina O Hawai‘i.

68,200

NUMBER OF POUNDS OF PRODUCE HARVESTED AS A RESULT OF RETURNING LANDS TO CULTIVATION AND TRADITIONAL RESOURCE MANAGEMENT PRACTICES

HAWAIIAN PLANTS IN PUBLIC LANDSCAPING

Hawaiian plants are an important part of Hawai‘i’s unique cultural and ecological heritage. While the state procurement code already requires that native and Polynesian-introduced plants be used in publicly financed projects where feasible, a loophole has prevented meaningful implementation. Act 233 requires an increasing percentage of publically funded landscaping to use native plants.

HAWAIIAN CROPS AND SMALL-SCALE FARMS

Hawai‘i’s agricultural policy has long supported diversified agriculture and agricultural growth, but as a result of Act, the policy will now also promote traditional Hawaiian farming systems, traditional crops such as kalo, ualo and ‘ulu, as well as small-scale farms.
A KEY GOAL OF OUR GOVERNANCE INITIATIVE is to facilitate a process that would give Hawaiians the opportunity to create a governing entity that would define Native Hawaiians as a political rather than racial group. The benefit of such a Governing Entity would be its ability to provide Native Hawaiians with greater control over their destiny as they move toward self-determination and self-sufficiency.

REGISTRATION OF NATIVE HAWAIIANS

THE HAWAIIAN REGISTRY PROGRAM helped register roughly 400 Native Hawaiians in the months of September and October 2015. The names of Native Hawaiians who signed-up (and did not opt-out) with the Hawaiian Registry Program were transferred to the Native Hawaiian Roll Commission. These Native Hawaiians are eligible to vote in the election of convention delegates for Native Hawaiian nation-building. The deadline to register was Oct. 15 and voting began Nov. 1, 2015.

A COMMISSIONED STUDY

ADVOCACY COMMISSIONED A STUDY on the international law and policy relating to the situation of the Native Hawaiian people. Law Professors James Anaya and Robert Williams wrote the report for the study that concluded, “a government-to-government relationship of the type contemplated by the proposed federal rule would in all likelihood strengthen, and would almost certainly not impede, the ability of the Native Hawaiian people to utilize international law and politics to advocate for improved conditions and for a future where Hawai‘i’s land and society better reflect the values of its first people.” View the report at mooaupuni.org.

LEGISLATION

NATIVE HAWAIIAN LAW TRAINING COURSE

Members of state boards and commissions have legal responsibilities regarding Native Hawaiian rights and the public trust doctrine. However, most officials do not know what they are expected to do to protect the legal rights of Native Hawaiians. Most attendees report that this course has helped them understand their responsibilities. Act 169 makes this training mandatory for appointees.

DATA COLLECTION ON CHILDREN WITH INCARCERATED PARENTS

Act 16 is a first step identifying and addressing the needs of Hawai‘i’s keiki of incarcerated parents. It requires the Department of Public Safety to collect intake data related to parents in prison and their children, in hopes of facilitating services to meet the keiki’s needs.

Trustees approved a maximum budget of $50 million, actual expenditures were lower. “It’s kind of like a cool park atmosphere where people are coming to hang out to enjoy the experience as well as good food.”

Pani Askew of Street Grindz is describing her latest venture, Makers & Tasters Kewalo.

The food truck park at the former site of Fisherman’s Wharf has a rotating list of vendors who bring a sense of community to Kaka’ako Makai land owned by OHA.

During the past fiscal year, OHA began master planning for the parcels of land it owns covering 30.72 acres. In mid-February until early March, OHA held 12 community meetings across the 14 neighborhoods as a part of the planning process to listen to people’s ideas on what should be done with the land. Among the many themes expressed by the community was to bring a Hawaiian sense of place to Kaka’ako Makai while creating a gathering place that everyone could enjoy.

Commercial Property Manager Allen Kam says Makers & Tasters is bringing excitement to the area.

“Street Grindz brings out the best of Hawaiʻi nei. It is an exciting and established Native Hawaiian-owned business that provides other local businesses with a venue to provide ‘ono food to local people.”

When OHA got the land from the state in 2012, the property was bringing in $1.1 million a year. In fiscal year 2015, thanks to the work of the Commercial Property division staff, those properties brought in more than $2 million, and revenues are projected to increase.

That’s good news because the revenue is being used to offset the cost of the master planning process.

Additionally, as a result of the Board of Trustees Kaka’ako Makai Policy, ten percent of gross revenues from Kaka’ako Makai goes to community grants.

Occupancy on the Kaka’ako parcels continues to rise as demand for the use of the land is strong. OHA expects the occupancy rate to reach 95 percent in the current fiscal year.

“We believe the outlook for this area is very positive,” said OHA Land and Property Director Miles Nishijima. “As we develop these parcels, we expect an increase in revenue that will only help strengthen our efforts to support Native Hawaiians.”
